

Hope Editorial Is Run by 18 Newspapers of Scripps-Howard Circuit

We are reprinting the editorial "Hope Leads the Way" because in our edition of last Friday it was credited only to the Memphis (Tenn.) Press Scimitar. Actually it was a Scripps-Howard circuit editorial from New York City reaching the 18 newspapers and nearly 3 million daily circulation of one of the largest press groups in the world. We discovered this after receiving a copy of the New York World-Telegram of Jan. 14.

Here are the Scripps-Howard newspapers: New York World-Telegram, Albuquerque (N.M.) Tribune, Birmingham (Ala.) Post-Herald, Fort Worth (Texas) Press, Houston (Texas) Press, Cincinnati (Ohio) Post & Times-Star, Cleveland (Ohio) Press & News, Pittsburgh (Pa.) Press, El Paso (Texas) Herald-Post, Evansville (Ind.) Press, Indianapolis (Ind.) Times, Kentucky Post & Times-Star, Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal, Memphis Press-Scimitar, Columbus (Ohio) Citizen, Denver (Colo.) Rocky Mountain News, and Washington (D.C.) Daily News. Their total circulation is 2,838,831, and the following editorial ran in the full list except for cities having two S-H papers (in Memphis) the evening Press-Scimitar but not the morning Commercial Appeal. And here is the editorial:

Hope Leads the Way

Editorial in New York World-Telegram and Scripps-Howard Newspapers of Jan. 14, 1964

What this country needs even worse than some decent weather is more people who practice what they preach. We suggest they might be organized as the Alex. Washburn Society.

Washburn, as editor and publisher of the Hope (Ark.) Star circulation 3,302, favors federal economy. There's nothing unusual about that, but Washburn takes the highly unusual attitude that economy should begin at home.

The Post Office Department wants to build a new $500,000 post office for Hope, population 8,399. Washburn opposes this editorially and is circulating a petition against it.

His reason: Hope doesn't need a new post office. The one it has is plenty good enough.

This is pretty radical thinking, in sharp contrast with the characteristic pitch which is: The government has got to quit this big spending and save some money, but go save it somewhere else. Don't pick on us!

Citizens committees will admit, privately, that proposed federal hand-outs for local improvements are extravagant, but everyone else is doing it and they have got to get their share.

What the country needs is a grass roots movement to follow the example set by Editor Washburn. It doesn't seem likely, but equally amazing things have happened in U.S. history. It could save billions.

Of Hope, Charity and Faith

Editorial in Tampa (Fla.) Tribune Jan. 14

The post office out in Hope, Arkansas, is a venerable building but considered adequate enough by its 8,399 residents to serve their needs.

An unusual situation has developed, though, since the federal government proposed to build a new $500,000 post office for Hope. There's a regulation somewhere that post offices should be replaced every 50 years, according to the word handed down to the people in Hope.

But Alex. H. Washburn, editor and publisher of the Hope Star, is leading an effort to gain 2,000 names on a petition to tell the government it can keep its new post office.

Why this spurning of federal largesses? Washburn holds the heretical theory that the ancient three-story building shouldn't be torn down and replaced as long as it's able to handle the job efficiently.

Besides, it's conveniently located downtown, and the proposed new post office would be two blocks away from the business district.

"There are thousands of towns like us throughout America," Washburn noted, "prosperous enough but without material change. To replace all their post offices simply because some non-elective official invokes a 50-year rule is to ask for this very attack I am making."

The little Arkansas town may not go along with his contention, although only last October it turned down $250,000 in federal funds for a paving project. Merchants' groups favor the new post office.

We'll soon know whether Hope believes in shouldering its own responsibilities instead of looking to Washington for charity — an attitude which ought to inspire in the rest of us a greater faith in self-help.

Tanganyika Second Time Troops Revolt

LONDON (AP) — Parliament was told tonight that disgruntled troops of the Tanganyika army have again broken out of their barracks and may have taken control of the airport in Dar es Salaam.

Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons that latest diplomatic reports from the East African state indicated the situation was again deteriorating.

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP) — Tanganyika troops mutinied today but returned to their barracks at the intervention of President Julius Nyerere, he told the nation by radio.

For a few hours the British feared an African nationalist revolution that recently swept the sultan from his throne in nearby Zanzibar had spread to Tanganyika, one of the most stable of the former British colonies in Africa.

A few hundred armed Tanganyika soldiers, demanding better pay and living conditions, had held their barracks officers as hostage for 12 hours. About 30 British officers were reported seized.

Britain has no troops stationed in Tanganyika except for British officers on loan to help.

Nyerere blamed the incident on a misunderstanding, but said it had been settled after he intervened.

Before the mutinous soldiers returned to camp, there were reports of beatings and looting by local Africans who took advantage of the situation.

About 40 U.S. government employees plus their dependents are in Tanganyika. The U.S. Embassy in London received a message that so far as was known, all Americans were safe.

The Americans include some 25 members of the Peace Corps, most of them engaged in a road-building project and a teaching program outside the capital.

Word reaching Nairobi, in neighboring Kenya, said troops of one battalion of the Tanganyika Rifles, the country's army, seized a barracks 10 miles from Dar es Salaam. Then they moved into the capital and grabbed the airport, the cable office, the post office and the official residence of President Julius Nyerere.

It was not known immediately whether Nyerere was being detained. Miles said he tried to make contact with the president without success.

The acting British commissioner also appealed to the 10,000 Europeans in Dar es Salaam to stay indoors. He was understood to be personally sheltering several British families, including wives and children of some British officers seized by the mutineers.

First accounts indicated the mutiny was not particularly political in character. The soldiers were said to be disgruntled over their pay and conditions.

Winds Harrass Forest Fire Fighters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High winds that harrassed forest fire fighters Sunday abated today and Arkansas had clear, mild weather. Winds of 10 to 15 miles per hour today contrasted with gusts to 40 miles per hour Sunday.

The state had spring-like weather Sunday, with highs generally in the 60s and low 70s. Little Rock reported a 75 and Texarkana 73.

Overnight minimums were generally from the mid 30s to mid 40s.

Clear cool weather was predicted for tonight, with lows 25 to 35, preceding another warm day Tuesday.

The Weather Bureau said no rain is in sight.

Court Refuses Baton Rouge Race Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court refused today to rule on the question whether Baton Rouge, La., was properly denied an injunction against demonstrations by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

John Christian mayor-president of Baton Rouge, appealed to the high tribunal to overturn a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans.

The litigation developed from demonstrations in Baton Rouge on Dec. 15, 1961 by Negro students of Southern University, in Scottville, La. They marched to Baton Rouge and after a crowd of Negroes, including the students, gathered in the courthouse area. Police made a number of arrests on charges that traffic was blocked.

The U.S. District Court in Baton Rouge granted the city an injunction to bar breaches of the peace and agitation likely to cause violence. CORE appealed to the Circuit Court and won reversal of the District Court order.

Search on for Grandmother in a Balloon

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A huge search spread to Mexico City today as scores of planes and ships hunted an adventurous grandmother who vanished high above stormy Catalina Channel in a hot-air balloon.

Red-haired Barbara Keith, 42, disappeared in rain clouds at 10,000 feet some 15 miles from land.

She was one of eight balloon pilots who took off Saturday to race from Avalon on Santa Catalina Island to mainland California. One fell nearby. Seven left the island as small craft warnings were flying and rain came down. Only one made it to the coast.

Boats rescued the airmen, including actor Cliff Robertson, but Mrs. Keith's onion-shaped balloon went higher than the others, caught a stiff breeze, and outdistanced its escorting boat below.

A widespread search Sunday found no trace of her at sea. Then balloonists consulted wind reports and decided that at 10,000 feet she might have hit gusts strong enough to push her across the coast near here before her four-hour fuel supply ran out.

Planes were ordered to search as far south as Ensenada, Mexico, 70 miles from here, and for a distance of 40 miles inland.

Hopes of finding her safe at sea were growing meager.

A couple at San Clemente said they saw a balloon plume into the water offshore Sunday afternoon.

If she hit at sea the two big heating gas tanks—which keep float. But another storm was approaching from the north. More rain was expected tonight.

"She is very good in tough situations," said her son, Joseph A. Garceau, of Concord, N.H. "She was always confident."

Mrs. Keith, who is from Hartford, Conn., claims she is the only grandmother of 10 who flies a balloon and parachutes. She began flying planes in 1947 after her second husband died. She bought a balloon eight months ago.

Ed Yost, 44, a veteran balloon pilot from Sioux Falls, S.D., found land-bound winds 100 feet from the water and drifted to a perfect landing at the edge of the surf at San Clemente in two hours, 40 minutes.

Nikita Told to Broaden Pact on Aggression

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Diplomatic Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev to broaden his proposal for a worldwide nonaggression pact to outlaw "indirect" as well as direct aggression and provide greater security for West Berlin.

In a letter made public today, the President proposed four "guidelines" for international agreement which he said would be "even broader and stronger" than Khrushchev's proposed ban on the use of force in territorial disputes.

Johnson did not specify Berlin or its access routes across Communist East Germany in his reply to Khrushchev's Dec. 31 message.

But administration officials said he had the Berlin problem in mind in asking agreement to prohibit the use or threat of force to change "arrangements or procedures concerning access to, passage across or the administration of those areas where international agreement or practice has established or confirmed such arrangements or procedures."

The President urged Khrushchev to join in taking "concrete action" both to end the nuclear arms race and bar the spread of nuclear weapons and to outlaw aggression and subversion.

Johnson's guidelines constituted an omnibus package for negotiation between the United States and Russia and among the nations of the world generally if Khrushchev is interested. The President stopped short of suggesting a new treaty specifically, though he did not rule one out.

Mafia Linked Man Escapes Assassin

DETROIT (AP) — Santo (Sam) Perrone, linked by police to the Mafia, escaped an apparent assassin's attempt on his life Sunday in the bombing of his automobile.

The 69-year-old Perrone, a police figure since a young man, was gravely injured. He lost his right leg.

The bomb blast, which shook an east side neighborhood, shattered Perrone's car. He was flung from the car.

Deputy Detective Chief Vincent Piersante said he knew of no troubles in the Detroit underworld that might have led to the incident.

The bomb apparently had been connected to the car ignition and rigged to explode when the ignition key was turned, police said.

Former Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards identified Perrone at the Washington crime hearings last year as connected with the Mafia or Cosa Nostra in Detroit crime syndicate activities.

Though often arrested, Perrone served only one prison term, that for operating illegal liquor stills in the 1930s.

Leave Spa Gambling Alone — Gov.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Saturday that gambling at Hot Springs should be "left as it is and we won't have (crime) syndicates here as is the case in Nevada."

On the same day at Hot Springs, Police Chief John Ermy promised a crackdown on "undesirable" persons in the resort city.

Faubus told a governmental affairs seminar in Little Rock that legalizing gambling in Hot Springs would cause the syndicates to move in.

Ermy said in a statement that Hot Springs and Garland County officers are "going to make a drive on all undesirable, prostitutes and persons convicted of felonies and we're going to bag 'em."

Hot Springs has an ordinance which requires all convicted felons to register with police on arrival.

Hot Springs usually tightens its law enforcement in advance of the horse racing season at Oaklawn Park. This year's meeting starts Feb. 15.

Cost, Tax Cutting Budget Goes to the Congress

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called a turnaround in the long upward march of federal spending today with a cost-cutting, tax-cutting, $97.9-billion budget aimed at the nation's pockets of poverty.

Johnson sent Congress a fiscal 1965 budget message which confidently assumed the "earliest possible" tax reduction. He termed it a "giant step toward... a balanced budget in a full-employment, full-prosperity economy."

The budget would carve $1.3 billion and 27,000 civilians from the Defense Department. He proposed a $54-billion national defense effort, which includes along with actual military expenditures such costs as civil defense, stockpiling and atomic weapons procurement.

Other cuts would hit the Agriculture Department, the Post Office, the Atomic Energy Commission, and the Veterans Administration.

The new fiscal blueprint also would thin slightly the over-all ranks of federal jobholders, sell off a billion-dollar batch of government assets and cut the deficit in half—from $10 billion this year to $4.9 billion in the federal year starting July 1.

At year's end, June 30, 1965, the national debt will have increased from $311.8 billion to $317 billion, he estimated.

Nevertheless it is a "compassionate" budget, Johnson said, providing history's heaviest spending for "our nation's most important resource — its people." He asked more than $1 billion for a package attack on the roots of misery.

Johnson told the legislators he was guided, in this first major economic task of his presidency, by the principle that "an austere budget need not be and should not be a standstill budget."

"When vigorous pruning of old programs and procedures releases the funds to meet new challenges and opportunities, economy becomes the companion of progress."

"A government that is strong, a government that is compassionate is the kind of government that endures."

He pledged that, despite military and nuclear cutbacks in spending—

"This budget safeguards the peace by providing for the further strengthening of the most formidable defense establishment the world has ever known."

Spurred by tax cuts, national output this year will soar by nearly $40 billion to a surprising record total of about $623 billion, the President predicted, generating higher revenues despite the lower tax rates.

So federal income will climb by $4.6 billion in the coming year.

Johnson Sees Prosperity If Taxes Are Cut

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson predicted today record-smashing prosperity in 1964 if Congress acts — "not in one or two or three months but now" — on the $11 billion tax cut.

Without it, Johnson warned, the rosy picture could become harsh — "dashed expectation could turn expansion into recession."

In his first economic report to Congress, Johnson also cautioned against inflationary price rises.

"A series of specific price increases in recent months — especially in manufactured goods — gives me some cause for concern," he said although he doesn't anticipate a renewal of the wage-price spiral.

He urged business and labor to continue their "excellent" record of price and cost settlements but said he is setting up an "early warning system" by government agencies to guard against potentially inflationary price and wage increases.

In the face of a 44 per cent increase in corporate profits in less than three years and the prospect of further increases to come with the tax cut, I see no warrant for inflationary price rises," he declared.

In the economic report to Congress, required annually under the 1946 employment act, Johnson made clear he was the new wagonmaster for the new frontier legislative train. And he pointed with pride to steps the country has made since 1961.

"Our record $100 billion expansion since early 1961 has carried us past important milestones in the march toward a better life," he said.

Turning to last year specifically, he said these advances were made for the first time in history:

—The gross national production (GNP)—the total output of the nation—

Auction Will Benefit Dimes Drive

The March of Dimes will conduct an unusual sale to raise funds when it has a special day on KXAR January 25.

It will be a "one month after Christmas auction" and members of the Hope Lions and Kiwanis Clubs will bring an item they got for Christmas and haven't had the courage to wear yet, like that tie from Uncle Mortimer or those socks Aunt Martha knitted for you and they are at least three sizes too large.

Members of these clubs and interested individuals are urged to look around the house for "White Elephants" and bring them down to Hope Auto Showroom where they will be auctioned off over the radio.

This will be one of the fun features of the day long donations for the March of Dimes. Home-town talent is requested to contact KXAR or Laura Impson at 5530. The Hope Auto Showroom will be turned over to the March of Dimes for this day as will KXAR. Local citizens are urged to come by and see the show or call in.

Gomer Jones Gets Sooner Coaching Job

By NORMAN ROWLAND

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Gomer Jones, 49-year-old soft-spoken line specialist who walked in the shadow of Bud Wilkinson for 17 years, was named Oklahoma head football coach Sunday.

Jones' appointment came eight days after Wilkinson resigned as head coach and one day after Wilkinson announced he also was giving up his post as athletic director. Wilkinson is considering running for the U. S. Senate.

Reten's President Glenn Northcutt said the university's athletic council will make a recommendation to the regents later concerning filling the athletic director vacancy. Action may be taken at a regents' meeting Tuesday.

Jones said terms of his contract will be worked out later. The appointment ended a week of strife involving the regents, Wilkinson and the university administration.

When Wilkinson resigned, he recommended Jones as his successor and said later he expected a smooth transition. But the regents balked and decided to go after "the best coach money can buy."

Northcutt said the main objection to Jones, who has developed many All-America linemen was his age. He will be 50 next month.

But there were rumors of political maneuvering, climaxed Saturday by Wilkinson's emotional statement announcing his resignation as athletic director "to free the regents from any further political involvement" relating to picking his successor.

Wilkinson told regents last Wednesday that the delay in filling the vacancy was hurting Oklahoma's recruiting. He again recommended Jones. The regents noted his recommendation but announced that interviews would be held Sunday for candidates and about 20 prospects were invited.

Besides Jones, only three — UCLA line coach Sam Boghosian, Illinois backfield coach Buck McPhail, and Nebraska backfield coach Mike Corgan — responded.

The regents took six hours and 15 minutes Sunday to accept formally Wilkinson's resignation as athletic director, interview the four applicants for the coaching job and formally announce Jones' appointment.

Celtics Have Rough Time Winning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston's power-laden Celtics don't often see a 22-point lead wither to one, and they rarely see their Bill Russell score on a long jump shot.

But both happened Sunday as the Celtics came out of their National Basketball Association game against San Francisco with a 108-105 triumph.

In other games, St. Louis whipped Cincinnati 114-109 and New York downed Baltimore 109-107.

Boston led the Warriors 78-56 in the third quarter, but San Francisco sliced that margin to 102-101 with a little less than two minutes remaining.

Goalie Happy Plane Was Grounded

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The grounding of a plane in Des Moines might seem insignificant to most people. But to Don Simmons it meant a reprieve and possibly a full pardon.

Simmons is a goalie for the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League who Boston peppered for 11 goals Saturday night. The plane, en route to Chicago where Toronto played Sunday night, carried Al Miller, goalie for Denver of the Western Hockey League.

Miller was called up to the Maple Leafs following the Boston debacle presumably to strengthen the Toronto defense. But Miller was on the ground in Des Moines, and Simmons took the ice in Chicago.

The 32-year-old NHL veteran took full advantage of the situation, blanking league-leading Chicago 2-0.

In other games Montreal tied Boston 1-1 and New York beat Detroit 3-1.

The victory moved the Leafs within one point of second-place Montreal and three of the Black Hawks.

Billy Harris and Ron Stewart backed Simmons' performance with goals in the second period. Simmons had 27 saves.

Besides Boston's 11-0 trouncing of Toronto Saturday night, Chicago knocked off New York 6-1 and Detroit blanked Montreal 2-0.

at the time gave the Celtics a 106-101 lead, turned out to be the winning basket. Tom Heinsohn, who added two free throws after Russell's shot, led Boston with 27 points. Wayne Hightower paced the Warriors with 24.

St. Louis moved into second place in the Western Division ahead of San Francisco. Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan sparked the Hawks in a third period outburst that provided an insurmountable lead.

In Saturday's action, Boston beat Detroit 121-115, Los Angeles outlasted Philadelphia 115-111, St. Louis nosed out Cincinnati 121-120 and Baltimore downed San Francisco 93-86.

Inactivity Hurting 4 Top Teams

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer It's tough enough retaining a national ranking just playing out the schedule. But when you don't have a schedule, man, that's double tough.

And that's the situation facing four of the nation's top ranked college basketball teams this week. Their high positions are threatened, not by opponents, but by inactivity as many of the teams take a break for semester examinations.

Top-ranked UCLA, No. 5 Davidson and No. 6 Vanderbilt take the week off while No. 10 Duke is idle for the second straight week.

The No. 1 Bruins will be hard to dislodge, however. They reeled off victory No. 15 in an unbeaten season Saturday with an 80-61 conquest of Stanford. Walt Hazzard and Gail Goodrich again were the big guns.

Michigan and Kentucky, ranked third and fourth respectively, kept pace. Bill Buntin and Cazzie Russell led Michigan to the top of the Big Ten with an 82-64 triumph over Ohio State while Kentucky, loser of two straight Southeast Conference games, bounced back 60-57 against Tennessee in Saturday games.

Fifth-ranked Davidson, idle Saturday, won a couple of weekday games and remained unbeaten at 14-0. DePaul, unranked, knocked off Dayton 89-83 for its 12th straight and remained the only other major unbeaten.

Vanderbilt and Villanova also protected their high standings, but No. 7 Oregon State and No. 8 Cincinnati are in trouble. Oregon State was upset by Oregon 47-45 Friday, but bounced back for a 66-53 triumph over the same team Saturday.

Cincinnati, however, was virtually eliminated from the Missouri Valley title chase with losses to Bradley, 87-77, and Drake, 66-53 in overtime Saturday. Wichita extended its conference mark to 5-0 with an 85-70 triumph over North Texas State.

Vandy beat Mississippi 88-81 and No. 9 Villanova ripped Xavier, Ohio, 90-88.

Dartmouth, meanwhile, ended an 18-game losing string, edging Amherst 56-53.

Chicago Loyola, the defending national champ and ranked second at 11-1, was idle last week but heads a sparse Monday slate with a visit to Memphis State.

Balfanz Main Hope of U.S. in Ski Jump

MADONNA DI CAMPIGLIO, Italy (AP)—Ski jumper John Balfanz remained the chief U.S. hope for a gold medal as the American skiing teams began to assemble here today for final practice sessions before moving on to the Olympic site at Innsbruck, Austria.

While Balfanz won the special jumping event of the Nordic Ski Tournament at Le Brassus, Switzerland, John Bower of Auburn, Maine, also boosted U.S. hopes with a surprise ninth-place finish in the Nordic combined standings.

3 Persons Killed in Collision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three persons were killed Sunday when the pickup truck in which they were riding drove into the path of a Greyhound bus at Roe, seven miles southwest of Clarendon.

The victims were Rev. William Cullipher, 65; his wife, 62, both of St. Charles, and Mrs. Jessie Saunders, 64, of Roe.

State Trooper John Haynes said the truck, driven by Cullipher, pulled from Mrs. Saunders' driveway into the path of the bus which was enroute to Memphis on U.S. Highway 79. No one on the bus was injured.

The 10-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mason of Brinkley was killed Sunday when the car at Bay, five miles north of Trumann, in Craighead County.

Mrs. Moon was alone in the car when it was struck by the train.

in which he was riding was struck head-on by another car on a county road one mile north of Brinkley.

The child's grandfather, Mack Mason, 49, of Brinkley, driver of the car; Mrs. Mack Mason, 45, and the child's great grandmother, Mrs. Ed Mayfield, 64, of Clarksville, were seriously injured.

Mrs. Bob Mason, 20; Verlon Smith, 21, of Lamar, driver of the other car, and James Pitts, 20, also of Lamar, a passenger in Smith's car, were all treated and released at a Clarksville hospital.

State Trooper Bob Pritchard said Smith was charged with involuntary manslaughter. Pritchard said Smith's car crossed the road into the path of the other car.

Ben Coleman, 71, a Negro of near Chidester in Ouachita County, was killed Sunday when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver along state Highway 24, about six miles west of Camden.

The fatalities Sunday increased the state's violent death toll to 15 for the week ended Sunday at midnight.

tions. It also was understood that some of the army was not involved.

The Tanganyika government had sent 300 policemen to Zanzibar to help restore order in that spice island, and the dispatching of these policemen seriously weakened Dar es Salaam's security forces.

The office of Central African Airways in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, said the Dar es Salaam Airport was closed to incoming traffic.

The BBC correspondent in the Tanganyika capital said shooting had broken out in the city's Oyster Bay area.

The correspondent said the Army's British commander, Brig. Patrick Sholto - Douglas, had tried to contact other units 400 miles from the capital, but couldn't find out whether they had joined the mutiny.

Britain has no troops in Tanganyika, which it administered until independence was granted Dec. 9, 1961. It supplies officers, however, to help train and command the native force.

Britain has a company of troops within easy reach aboard a British navy frigate standing off Zanzibar to help evacuate British civilians.

Tanganyika radio went off the air this morning, and a responsible British source in London said Dar es Salaam's international telephone exchange was in rebel hands.

The outbreak came two days after "Field Marshal" John Okello, military chief of the Zanzibar revolution, flew to Dar es Salaam ostensibly seeking talks with President Julius Nyerere and other leaders of Tanganyika.

British press reports said Nyerere, considered one of the most moderate of the new African leaders, snubbed Okello and took a five-day trip into the interior.

After 75 years of German and British colonial rule, Nyerere shepherded Tanganyika to independence without a shot being fired. Retaining British officials in his government, Nyerere has worked hard to try to improve Tanganyika's economic lot.

He continued to be a moderate voice in turbulent African politics, but he has been under pressure from extremist elements in his own party to take a tougher line.

Dar es Salaam, which overlooks the bay facing Zanzibar, is a port city with a population of about 140,000.

Johnson placed heavy emphasis on declaring the peace aims of his foreign policy instead of replying at length to points in Khrushchev's letter to which he and his advisers strongly objected.

Johnson did reassert, however, the U.S. commitment "to the peaceful unification of Germany" and to Nationalist China and he declared U.S. "forces and bases abroad are for collective defense."

Johnson's four guidelines covered these major points:

1. All governments or "regimes" — which would include Red China — "shall abstain from the direct or indirect threat or use of force" to change international boundaries or dividing lines established by international practice, to upset truce agreements, or to alter existing arrangements for access to or administration of areas where the arrangements are established by international agreement or practice. This first guideline would also ban the use of threat or of force by any government to enlarge its control of territory by overthrowing "established authority."

2. The prohibition on aggressive action "shall apply regardless of the direct or indirect form which such threat or use of force might take, whether in the form of aggression, subversion, or clandestine supply of arms" and regardless of the reasons given or of any questions of diplomatic recognition or differences in political systems.

3. The nations involved in any serious dispute "shall seek a solution by peaceful means" including the possibility of action through the United Nations or a regional U.N. agency.

4. The obligations covered in the guideline "would have to be quite generally observed" and would not impair the "inherent right of self defense" which is recognized by the U.N. charter. Johnson said the United States believes the peacekeeping processes of the United Nations and particularly its security council "should be more fully used and strengthened."

"In conclusion with our allies," the President wrote Khrushchev, "we shall offer specific proposals along these lines in the weeks ahead. Both the Geneva Disarmament Conference and the United Nations are appropriate places for such discussions."

DOROTHY DIX

TRAPPED BY MARRIED LIFE

By Helen Worden Erskine

Dear Helen: I'm a wife in my 30s, have three healthy children and a wonderful husband, but I feel miserable, unhappy and depressed. We married when I was 19 and he 20. He was an only child with a mother whose whole life was wrapped up in him. My parents favored the match — he being a good boy from a nice family, of the same religion and a church worker. I suppose we got along well enough although we argue a lot, but he says that's natural. After 13 years I still don't know if I love him or not and if it weren't for the children, would end my own life. A nerve specialist said there is nothing wrong with me except my thinking. I need to change my outlook on life.

There is a civil war going on inside me all the time. My temper is terrible. I scream at the children constantly though don't mean to.

While feeling no desire for sex, I long to be loved and comforted. There is a couple in a group we run around with that seem so happy. I keep comparing the husband with mine and that makes me more miserable than ever. My husband is in business for himself and when home, forever on the telephone. If not phoning, he's working at the church or so dog-tired he has no time for his family. However, he insists he loves me and will make our marriage a happy one. The house and small, ornery, lively children keep me extra busy. By the time night comes we're both so weary we only see the worst in each other.

Deep down inside I feel pushed into a loveless marriage by over-solicitous parents. My mother is now a widow, very selfish and an added worry to me. Am I being selfish too in trying to seek happiness. Should I try to learn to love my husband or is divorce (which I don't believe in) the answer? I feel trapped by married life. — Desperate

Dear Desperate: The nerve specialist was right. You need to do a complete right-about-face on your thinking. Go through the motions of being grateful for the life God gave you even though you may feel like jumping off the dock. Put the emphasis on the positive. Start by listing all the good things that have come your way. Give thanks for a loving husband and those "ornery" children, however demanding. What child is not?

Suppose you were pushed into marriage before you were ready for it? That's all water over the dam. Divorce is not the answer in your case. You contracted to fulfill an obligation and must live up to it.

As my husband often says, it's not what happens to you but the way you take it that counts. How can you hope to discipline your children if you don't discipline yourself? Exercise your will by making the most, instead of the worst, of what you've got. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Marital Harmony."

Dear Helen: After going with a boy two and a half years, I became engaged six months goods a services—passed the $600 billion mark by year-end.

—Personal income (before taxes) reached an average rate of some $2,500 per capita by year-end.

—After-tax income of individuals exceeded $400 billion for the year.

—Corporate profits exceeded $50 billion before taxes and $25 billion after taxes.

—Residential construction passed $25 billion.

—Civilian employment exceeded 70 million for the year.

Johnson said this $600 billion annual rate the GNP reached in the fourth quarter of 1963 is a 16 per cent increase since 1961.

With the tax cut, he added, GNP should soar to $623 billion in 1964.

When fully effective in 1965, he asserted, the cut will "send well over $11 billion annually coursing through the arteries of the private economy."

Benefits will be reaped year after year, he said, and will lead "at long last to a balanced budget in a balanced economy at full potential."

Dear J.: Do the natural thing under the circumstances. Write him—say you're concerned. Is he sick; if not, what's wrong? Whatever the trouble he should be man enough to face it—with you. If he isn't, then good riddance. Keep the tone of your letter affectionate and give him the benefit of the doubt.

Thinks Purpose Accomplished

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—

The Arkansas chairman of the National Draft Goldwater Committee said today his organization had accomplished its purpose by getting Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to run, and that the organization now would become a campaign group for Goldwater.

E. E. Barber, the committee chairman, said his group would put several thousand people to work campaigning for Goldwater.

He named a district chairman for each congressional district. They are: District 1—Mack L. Howington, Lepanto; District 2—Dr. Edwin F. Mathis, Little Rock; District 3—Bruce Brightman, Eureka Springs, District 4—Dr. Berry L. Moore Jr., El Dorado.

Barber said each district chairman would appoint county chairmen.

"The personnel and facilities of our state organization will be absorbed into the Goldwater for President Committee," Barber said. The first job he said, is to influence Republican votes for the July convention.

through were these items, practically all bearing the Kennedy administration label:

1. Higher penalty rates for overtime pay to stimulate new hiring by some industries.

2. Federal aid to upgrade education.

3. Hospital insurance under Social Security for the aged.

4. Federal aid to cities in modernizing mass transit.

5. Renewal and strengthening of a number of expiring housing laws.

6. Coverage of 2.5 million more workers by the $1.25 minimum wage law, including some 650,000 hotel, motel, restaurant, laundry, dry-cleaning and farm-processing workers.

7. A permanent improvement in the duration and benefits of unemployment insurance.

8. A rash of legislation "to lift the forgotten fifth of our nation above the poverty line."

Bob Miller Was the Best Relief Hurler
By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Who was the most effective relief pitcher in the National League for the last two months of the 1963 season? Hint: He was with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Think you have it? No, it wasn't Tom Ferranoski. It was Bob Miller.

Miller, a right-hander who came to the Dodgers last year after a 1-12 campaign with the New York Mets in 1962, came out of the bullpen 14 times during August and September and surpassed even the left-handed Ferranoski during that period.

Miller was touched for only three runs in 41 innings for a 0.66 earned run average. During the same stretch, Ferranoski allowed seven runs in 45 innings for a 1.40 ERA.

Although that might seem a surprise, it apparently was apparent to the Dodgers. Miller, who finished the season with a 10-8 record and a 2.89 ERA, signed his 1964 baseball contract over the weekend for an estimated $6,500 boost to the $20,000 neighborhood.

Miller was one of 11 Dodgers who returned signed contracts over the weekend, and joined three others who received substantial salary boosts. Catcher John Roseboro got a hefty increase of about $9,000 to $32,000. Outfielder Willie Davis received a $6,000 boost to $18,000 and first baseman - outfielder Ron Fairly was elevated to about $3,000 to $21,000.

Also signing were pitchers Larry Sherry, Pete Richert, Joe Moeller and Charles Bohling, infielders Bart Shirley and John Werhas and catcher Jeff Tor-

Make My Bed Soon
By JACK WEBB
The whole thing was a farce to begin with—a girl in a fancy Scottsville saloon along with a fat, balding, middle-aged man, and they were having such a good time it made me sick.

But maybe you haven't seen what I saw in her. A tawny figure in a white sheath that would have drawn Christian from the Bounty or Jason from the Argo. Dark eyes. Hair as jet as a raven's wing and as sleek as a page-boy's at Camelot. Yet a fine-boned girl, delicate. So I was tired of May riding tandem on October's wheel.

"Probably hard as nails," I said.

"I beg your pardon," said the bartender.

I found some money and paid for my drink. There was no use making a thing of it.

The honky-tonk pianist returned from wherever he had been, and sat on the square postage stamp stage.

In the mirror behind the bar I could see that the cigarette girl had stopped at their table. She was wearing black net leotard.

Only then, a party hit the bar, a big party loaded with all the electricity of a night on the town.

The gal who got on the stool next to mine was wearing a beige mink and that sort of well-tailored hair that goes immediately misty when Mother begins to show those first silver threads. She also was wearing something of pink wool which fitted on the principle of stretch pants. The little guy with her had on a dark jacket, which unfortunately matched his shoulders, and looked as if he had starved himself to death affording her company.

The pianist came out of his meditation and began to rip off the keyboard with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and to nod and make those silly faces which are supposed to mean you know everybody who is anybody. A couple of statues came to life to prove that there always had been three bartenders, and everything became as busy. Thursday night in Scottsville was busting out all over, and the couple at the table didn't like it one bit.

I discovered, the gal next door.

"You look all of a sudden happy," she said. Surprisingly, she had a good, rich voice with only a little gravel raked in to lend sincerity.

"Spring has sprung," I said, "and fall is falling. Let us all take the grape and tend to rejoice."

"There isn't much grape in what we're drinking," she observed. "Is it Gail Covalt, the girl at the table, the dark one?"

"Never saw her before in my life."

"But you don't like who she's with or what she's doing and you wish it were you?"

"You should tell fortunes."

Her candid glance was too sharp, so I turned my head borg.

The San Francisco Giants also were busy in the signing market. Five young pitchers came to terms—Paul Doyle, Joe McKirahan, Frank Kasheta, Dick Sparks and Bill Wade.

The New York Yankees signed second baseman Bobby Richardson, the Chicago White Sox got the names of outfielder Dave Nicholson and catcher J.C. Martin on a contract and the Cleveland Indians signed pitcher Dick Donovan and catcher Johnny Romano.

Jack Charlton got his face working. "Chet," he said, "we didn't expect..."

"You're right you didn't expect." The big man smiled and he spoke softly, but he kept moving forward.

Then a big hand shot out and grabbed a fistful of shirt front.

Bob Miller Was the Best Relief Hurler
By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Who was the most effective relief pitcher in the National League for the last two months of the 1963 season? Hint: He was with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Think you have it? No, it wasn't Tom Ferranoski. It was Bob Miller.

Miller, a right-hander who came to the Dodgers last year after a 1-12 campaign with the New York Mets in 1962, came out of the bullpen 14 times during August and September and surpassed even the left-handed Ferranoski during that period.

Miller was touched for only three runs in 41 innings for a 0.66 earned run average. During the same stretch, Ferranoski allowed seven runs in 45 innings for a 1.40 ERA.

Although that might seem a surprise, it apparently was apparent to the Dodgers. Miller, who finished the season with a 10-8 record and a 2.89 ERA, signed his 1964 baseball contract over the weekend for an estimated $6,500 boost to the $20,000 neighborhood.

Miller was one of 11 Dodgers who returned signed contracts over the weekend, and joined three others who received substantial salary boosts. Catcher John Roseboro got a hefty increase of about $9,000 to $32,000. Outfielder Willie Davis received a $6,000 boost to $18,000 and first baseman - outfielder Ron Fairly was elevated to about $3,000 to $21,000.

Also signing were pitchers Larry Sherry, Pete Richert, Joe Moeller and Charles Bohling, infielders Bart Shirley and John Werhas and catcher Jeff Tor-

Make My Bed Soon
By JACK WEBB
The whole thing was a farce to begin with—a girl in a fancy Scottsville saloon along with a fat, balding, middle-aged man, and they were having such a good time it made me sick.

But maybe you haven't seen what I saw in her. A tawny figure in a white sheath that would have drawn Christian from the Bounty or Jason from the Argo. Dark eyes. Hair as jet as a raven's wing and as sleek as a page-boy's at Camelot. Yet a fine-boned girl, delicate. So I was tired of May riding tandem on October's wheel.

"Probably hard as nails," I said.

"I beg your pardon," said the bartender.

I found some money and paid for my drink. There was no use making a thing of it.

The honky-tonk pianist returned from wherever he had been, and sat on the square postage stamp stage.

In the mirror behind the bar I could see that the cigarette girl had stopped at their table. She was wearing black net leotard.

Only then, a party hit the bar, a big party loaded with all the electricity of a night on the town.

The gal who got on the stool next to mine was wearing a beige mink and that sort of well-tailored hair that goes immediately misty when Mother begins to show those first silver threads. She also was wearing something of pink wool which fitted on the principle of stretch pants. The little guy with her had on a dark jacket, which unfortunately matched his shoulders, and looked as if he had starved himself to death affording her company.

The pianist came out of his meditation and began to rip off the keyboard with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and to nod and make those silly faces which are supposed to mean you know everybody who is anybody. A couple of statues came to life to prove that there always had been three bartenders, and everything became as busy. Bobcats Drop Game to the Panthers

By CARTER HARDAGE
Hope Star Sports Editor

The Camden Panthers defeated the Bobcats 76-63 Saturday night in Camden.

When asked after the game to comment, Coach Billy Mitchell was forced to plead, "No comment." Coach Ballard, Junior coach and spectator during the senior game, was also forced to say, "No comment," after a moment's hesitation.

The match started off with a real bang, and a preview of what was to come. Reinhardt was called for fouling after a grand total of five seconds of playing time had elapsed.

The First Quarter was pretty even, regardless of the officiating, and the lead changed hands several times. When the buzzer sounded, Camden had a 20-16 advantage.

The Second Quarter was another story, however. The Panthers started racking them up, from both the charity line and the outside. The Bobcats started going to pieces. When the teams went to the dressing rooms at the Half, Hope trailed by an overwhelming 47-22.

When play resumed, Hope had calmed down and was holding its own.

The Third Quarter came to an end, with the Panthers still off in the distance, 60-35. The fouls were falling hot and heavy on the Bobcats.

When play resumed, the Cats were strictly all business. They stopped throwing the ball away, stopped missing easy shots, wouldn't give up the ball until they had scored, and really turned on the hustle.

Despite the fact that all the starters but Henley left the game during the quarter because of an overdose of fouls, the Cats racked up an amazing 28 points. The final score was 76-63.

In the scoring department, Bill Reinhardt was high with 21 points. Johnny Honeycutt had 13, Paul Henley 12, Dan Jones and Jerry Burnett 7 each, and Mike Alle 3.

The whole Hope team deserves a lot of credit. Despite the fact that they trailed by 25 points at the end of the Third Quarter, they came fighting back to within 13 points at the final buzzer. Never did they falter. That is the material that champs are made of.

The night of February 15 is the date of the next meeting of these two teams. Fans will just have to sit back and wait for that time to come around.

In the evening's opener, the Bobkittens fought off a late threat by the Camden Juniors to win 38-34. That makes them 3-0 in the District. Coach Ballard commented, "We had an off night. We even missed the easy ones, but we won it anyway."

Tomorrow night the Seniors Girls and the Seniors Boys go to Prescott.

Lema Winner of Crosby Tournament

By DICK BARNES

Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)

—Champagne Tony Lema won the Crosby Golf Tournament by conquering the weather and his own fears Sunday — the foes which substituted for opposing golfers.

Tony didn't have to beat the rest of the field because the golfers beat themselves in a bizarre final round which included Bob Rosburg's six-putt green and Bob Harrison's score of 100 in the blustery winds and rain which swept Pebble Beach golf course.

Tony's closing round was only a 76—four over par at the 6,747-yard seaside links. It looked brilliant next to the 88 posted by Al Balding, the lanky Canadian who began the day tied for the lead with Tony. And it handily beat the 82 of Jay Hebert and 79 of Bruce Devlin, the opponents who were two strokes behind after three rounds.

No one equalled par 72. Soon after he started his final round, Tony had a seven-stroke lead. But the rain was falling almost sideways a near-gale and golf balls were plunking left and right into the ocean.

Thus he conquered his own fears—ones that caused him to say, "I was scared all the way, but I knew when I went out to the first tee that if I shot a fairly good score and didn't blow up, I had a good chance."

Once he conquered himself, Lema beat the weather by playing safe with his comfortable lead. He was most cautious at the treacherous par-three 17th hole, an ocean-fronting borer which he double-bogied Saturday — and in which Arnold Palmer took a wire.

Tony rapped a safe two-iron

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Art Powell's ability to get a couple of steps ahead of a life-long buddy propelled the West to a 27-24 victory over the East and a perfect record in three American Football League All-Star games.

Powell's climactic act came Sunday after the West had driven to the East two in the closing minutes, trailing only 24-20 after overcoming a 24-3 halftime deficit. Including an East offside, the West had five tries to get the ball over. The East defense held.

Only 1:29 remained. The East, however, was unable to move and was forced to punt, and the West took over on the East 43.

Only 1:05 remained. Quarterback Cotton Davidson fired a short pass to Lance Alworth. Complete. Davidson fired a short one to Powell, his Oakland teammate. Complete. Davidson finally missed one, then called Powell's play again — on a deep pattern this time.

Powell raced full speed into the left corner of the end zone, outdistancing defender Willie West of Buffalo, and hauled in the 25-yard aerial for the winning touchdown.

Only 43 seconds remained. Despite the spectacular ending, both West Coach Sid Gillman of San Diego and East Coach Mike Holovak of Boston pointed to a 64-yard touchdown run by San Diego's Keith Lincoln in the third quarter as the decisive play in the West's third victory in three All-Star games.

Only Jim Fraser's field goal had put them on the scoreboard until Lincoln's run.

The East had built a 24-3 halftime lead as Boston's Babe Parilli completed 12 of 16 passes for 142 yards and two touchdowns. One went 12 yards to Boston's Larry Garron and the other three to New York's Bill Mathis. Buffalo's Cookie Gilchrist scored the other TD on a one-yard smash.

Lincoln, voted the outstanding back of the game, then got the West rolling. Tobin Rote of San Diego hit Charger teammate Alworth with a 51-yard pass that set up a five-yard touchdown run by Paul Lowe of San Diego. Another Fraser field goal made it 24-20.

That put the spotlight on Powell.
